

Live

Calling all artists: Competition, sale are planned

Print Page

Published: Sunday, April 13, 2008 1:08 AM EDT

There's a lot happening right now at the Community School of the Arts.

Here are two things to consider:

Grant Circuit Court Judge Mark Spitzer, the Grant County Bar Association and CSA are teaming up to see who can create the best painting or drawing of our the Grant County Courthouse.

Professionals, students and kids are all welcome to participate.

People from all over the state are doing renderings of their local courthouses too. The winners from each county will be permanently on display in the Indianapolis Bar Association building that will be seen by hundreds of judges, lawyers and people, as well as on the group's Web site.

We want Grant County's pride to shine through. Second place will be put on display in the Grant County Courthouse.

Spitzer and his team will be the judges of the work. We hope the community takes pride in their art, talent and courthouse for all of Indiana to see.

The winners will be announced at 6 p.m. May 19 at The Mill as part of the first CSA Art Auction.

The first CSA Art Auction will be a fun way to kick off the week of the Go-Kart Race.

Food, spirits and team rivalry will be a part of this magical evening as CSA celebrates the phenomenal artistic talents that this community is blessed to have.

Professionals like Rod Crossman, Ron Mazellan, Eric Reaves, JD Wyant and David Rush are just a few who have agreed to put up their art work for sale.

Students and kids also will be able to auction off their art work in a silent auction to give the kids a taste of what it's like to be a professional.

All artists will be able to keep 70 percent of their earnings.

To learn more, contact CSA at 662-6263 or log on to www.csa-marion.com.

Copyright © 2008 - Chronicle-Tribune

[x] Close Window