Holiday show sure to be a hit

BY MARK FAUSER

Executive director, Community School of the Arts

Published: Sunday, November 30, 2008 1:14 AM EST

The Community School of the Arts is creating an original two-act musical for Grant County — Home for the Holidays — that will be performed Dec. 20 and 21.

Michael Deluise, actor from NYPD Blue, Wayne's World and CSI, will be back to reprise his devilish role to try and ruin Christmas for everybody in Grant County.

Dan Roebuck, actor from The Fugitive, Matlock, CSI and the recent movie Christmas is Here Again, starring Jay Leno, Kathy Bates, Brad Garrett and Andy Griffith to name a few, will play a man coming back to his hometown of Grant County to make a difference and encounters some difficult issues.

The show will, of course, be family-friendly with a lot of great music, dance and comedy. It will be inspiring and it will have some real tear-jerker moments.

John D'Aquino, star of Disney's Cory In The House, also will be in the show, via video, projected from "heaven." Those scenes involving our special needs students who have autism. These kids have been a joy to work with throughout the semester and are excited to be on stage for the first time.

We deal with issues in our show that our partners from Family Service Society, Court Appointed Special Advocates, Carey Services, our teachers and Grant County school systems would be very proud of.

The show has more than 200 CSA kids from Grant County and beyond, ages 4 and up.

Jennifer Seybold will have ice skating and, to my knowledge, it will be the first time ever to have ice skating at the F. Ritchie Walton Performing Arts Center.

Sheila Todd has her musical team playing live music.
